

Resurrection

In 1980, a movie was released entitled: Resurrection that starred Ellen Burstyn, Roberts Blossom, Clifford David, Richard Farnsworth, and Sam Shepard. The movie is about a woman, who becomes a widow when her husband is killed in a car crash. The woman then discovers that she is a healer.

Carl took a trip to North Carolina to visit his mother. One afternoon he decided to go for a ride to Myrtle Beach South Carolina, which is very close by. As he was driving down highway 17 south, in the northern part of Myrtle Beach, his eye is suddenly drawn to a movie theater. Suddenly he sees the theater's marquee illuminated with a very bright light. Immediately, Carl becomes curious, and pulls into the theater's parking lot.

It was a very bright sunny day, and Carl walks up to the ticket seller, who is sitting in the booth. He begins to ask the person behind the glass, about the movie Resurrection. Carl had no idea what the movie was about.

Suddenly, the sky opened up, and white balls began falling from the sky. It would be similar to a snowstorm, except this substance was larger, like perhaps hail. Yet, it also was not hail. The phenomena ended as quickly as it started. The person behind the ticket counter ran outside to try to determine what had fallen from the sky. No one could figure out what the substance was, and it seemed to evaporate or disappear within minutes.

Carl went in and watched the movie. Much to his amazement, it was about a medium who was a healer. Carl was so enthralled with the movie, that he rented a 16 mm version of it, and showed it at the Gifts of the Spirit Church.
